

Exquisite Corpse Drawing

This type of drawing was first created by the surrealists in the 1920's and is used as a party game even today.

How exquisite do you think you can be?

Step 1: Find two friends. You will need three people to play this game.

Step 2: Grab a sheet of paper and a pencil, coloured pencils, or markers

Step 3: Fold the paper into three sections.

Step 4: Begin to draw! The first person starts with the top section. This will be the head of your exquisite corpse. Make sure no one sees what you are drawing. Add colour using pencils or markers. Once you're done, fold your head section over so that no one can see it. Make sure to extend little marks onto the middle panel so that the next person will see where your neck ends. Then pass the paper with the head folded so no one can see it to your friend or family member.

Step 5: The second person draws on the middle section which will be the torso. Make sure to connect the torso to the neck lines that are visible from the head part of the drawing. Once they are finished drawing the torso, fold it over so that the third person will not see the head or torso panel. Make sure to extend little marks onto the third panel so that the next person will see where your torso ends.

Step 6: Person 3 will now draw the legs in the last section. Make sure they connect the legs to the little marks of the torso.

Step 7: And then....unfold and VOILA!
You have made your own, unique exquisite corpse.

Use a gluestick to attach it to a page in your sketchbook.
